HDIAC Spotlight Guidelines

HDIAC publishes Spotlights (short articles) every week on www.hdiac.org. Spotlights are high-level, short summaries of technologies, research or events in our eight focus areas. They are typically 600-1,000 words and include at least one high resolution (300 dpi) image, which has been approved, released for publication to HDIAC and credited. Additional images are recommended, but not required. References should be fully cited at the end of the spotlight in APA format. Spotlights should relate to one of our eight focus areas, have a Department of Defense application and be free of political opinion/positions. The spotlight and any associated references will be added to the HDIAC collection.

The spotlights are published on www.hdiac.org along with downloadable PDF versions and are posted to HDIAC's twitter and LinkedIn accounts. Authors are encouraged to visit the HDIAC website to download and display the PDF. Spotlights can be re-published after they have been taken off the HDIAC website, and we appreciate citing HDIAC as the original source.

To submit a spotlight or an idea for a spotlight, email publications@hdiac.org.
